"The will of nature is to cover the land," said District Forester E. Clyde Pyle last night in addressing the Stroudsburg Lions Club dinner in the Penn Stroud Hotel. His theme was "Object Lessons in Forestry." The district forester was introduced by Jacob Kintz, himself a graduate in forestry.

The speaker said that forestry, as an industry, is a mere infant, aged about 50 years, and comparable to the age of mill-wa attributable to other lines. New ideas always meet resistance and forestry has not been too easy to introduce. There are, however, contrasts evident to all that tell a striking story.

If one goes to the Effort mountain—Long Pond area, the speaker said, he finds a region barren and desolate compared to places that had been spared the scourge of forest fires for 20 years or more. The Laurel Run road region cleared by the CCC boys now has a splendid "new-tall" forest.

District Forester Pyle told of early experiments in forestation dating back to 1899 and located in Pike County, near Porter's Lake, Cataipas and North Carolina popular whips were planted there and none of the original plantations can now be found, but a strong second growth of good trees is in evidence.

The speaker told of deer study on the part of the forestry department and said that deer will greatly damage, even destroy, many trees but that some are immune to their attacks. He said that a tract of a half acre, carefully

Comedy relief was given the meeting when International Councilor Elton Hall lured the tall twister, Lion Kopenhagen, out of the room and the latter was fined in his absence.

Joseph McCloskey was appointed chairman of the annual charter night committee.

ESHS Nominates Candidates For Prom's Reigning Couple

East Stroudsburg High School students yesterday nominated their candidates for the honorary titles "First Man and First Lady."

The title will be conferred tonight as the highlight feature of an "Inaugural Ball" in the borough Junior High School auditorium to which all students of the school and young men and women of this area have been invited.

The "slate" of candidates consists of three boys and three girls from which the students attending tonight's dance will choose the reigning couple. Each person at the dance will be entitled to one vote in the competition.

Candidates for the honor are the following: Paul (Candy) Miller and Bob Bartron, both seniors; Don Herman, a junior student; Mano Harmon and Mary Woodyatt, both seniors, and Jeanne Quinlan, a junior.

The names were chosen by students of all three grades in the high school.

Tonight's dance—actually the school's senior class prom for the year—will begin promptly at 8:30 p. m. and is expected to end "around 11:30," a senior class spokesman said yesterday.

Music for the dance will be provided by Bob Alexy's orchestra.

YOUR INCOME TAX—NO. 3

Uncle Sam Helps Many With Bulk Of Tax Arithmetic

By FRANCIS J. KELLY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Washington — Government experts will do the bulk of your income tax arithmetic for you if you are eligible to use form 1040 A.

This single sheet, amber-colored optional tax return form contains a list of simple questions such as your name, address, employer, number of dependents, and wages. You answer the questions and the bureau of Internal Revenue will figure out your tax, sending you a bill for any amount not covered by withholding, or a refund, as the case may be.

Strict rules govern who may use this form, however.

You may use a 1040 A if your total income was less than $5,000 and consisted entirely of wages subject to withholding, or of such wages and not more than $100 total of other wages, dividends and interest.

When to Use Long Form
But you will have to use the more complicated Form 1040 return if you had any such income from other sources, such as rents, annuities, royalties or a business; or if you claim status as the head of a household.

In reckoning your tax, the revenue bureau uses a table which takes account of your exemptions ($600 each) and allows about 10 per cent of your total income as a deduction in place of charitable contribution, taxes, interest, extraordinary medical expenses, etc. If your deductions run more than 10 per cent of your income, it will pay you to use long-form 1040 and itemize them.

If you are buying a home, and the interest payments on your mortgage run high, it may pay you to itemize them and other allowable deductions on the long-form. It is impossible to do so on form 1040 A or on 1040 when used as a short-form. The same holds good if you sustain a big loss from fire, flood, or theft, or have large medical expenses.

Choosing Your Form
There are a couple of other reasons why you may find it desirable to use form 1040 in place of 1040 A.

You may have received reimbursements out-of-town travel expenses, which your employer reported as part of your income. You aren't required to pay taxes on an expense account, so you take this deduction on 1040, used either as a long-form (four pages) or short-form (single sheet).

Or, it may be that you want to know right away the amount of your refund or tax due, without waiting for the revenue director's office to figure it out. In this case, short-form 1040 is your choice.

When you use short-form 1040 you find your tax from a table and write it in yourself. Long-form 1040 requires you to make your own computations. The long-form is required of all taxpayers whose income is $5,000 or more.

Who Can File Jointly
In general, married couples can save money by making joint returns. Be sure to put the name of both husband and wife at the top of the return, and both must sign it. If you make a joint return using Form 1040 A, the revenue bureau will figure your tax by both the joint and separate methods and bill you for the smaller amount.

You are entitled to make a joint return even if you didn't get married until Dec. 31, 1952, or if your spouse died anytime in 1952. But if you were divorced or legally separated on or before Dec. 31, you are considered single for the entire year.

Personal exemptions are important. Each cuts $600 off your taxable income. Each taxpayer is entitled to one for himself, his wife, and each dependent close relative. The taxpayer gets an additional exemption if he is over 65, or blind; and a total of three exemptions if he is both blind and over 65. Those same extra exemptions apply to the taxpayer's wife.

You can't claim an exemption for a dependent if his or her income for 1952 was $600 or more.

Blood Donors Set Record For County By Giving 345 Pints

Goal Topped; Deficit Is Wiped Out

Blood donors hung up a smashing 345-pint record yesterday at Stroudsburg Presbyterian Church. It was the greatest number of pints ever collected in one day in all county history.

The previous record was 237 pints on Dec. 20, 1951, at the VFW home in Stroudsburg. This was only about 69 per cent of the new record.

The blood drive yesterday was sponsored by the Monroe County Ministerium. The cooperating ministers and members of their congregations had hoped for "at least 300 pints," but many thought the ministerium would be doing well to reach the 300 figure at all.

Nearly everyone was surprised yesterday at the tremendous influx of donors. Men and women, grey-heads and church haircuts, streamed into the church basement from 10 a. m. until after dark.

No sooner was the 20 beds empty than another donor lay down to offer a pint of his blood.

The 300 pints was set as the goal in order to meet the monthly 125-pint quota, wipe out a Monroe County bloodbank deficit of several months' standing, and leave enough additional pints to allow for fractionalization and processing for an anti-polio serum.

The additional 45 pints collected, above the 300-quota, allows for a comfortable surplus for the first time in more than a year.

Most of the officials involved thought there were two reasons for the big turnout:

One—A desire by residents to give blood for gamma globulin serum.

Two—"The personal contact" approach used by members of the ministerium in getting donors for the occasion.

For point number one, residents were proving themselves by showing a desire to give their own money and blood—literally—to defeat the polio scourge.

For point number two, this was the way it worked out:

About a month ago Rev. Ernest T. Campbell, Stroudsburg Presbyterian pastor, broached the subject to the ministerium members. Details were worked out. Ministers—particularly in the Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg areas—set out to do a good deal of button-holing of congregation members and friends, explaining the need and urging cooperation and help. Members of the congregation followed suit.

It took about an hour for the bloodmobile personnel to set up its equipment in the church basement—"one of the best places we've ever had to work in," one said—and at 10 a. m. the first donor—a man—was processed.

There were plenty of people to help: the bloodmobile unit had 10 nurses and three custodians; 10 local nurses and 30 Red Cross volunteers, plus Dr. Morton H. Spinner in the afternoon and Dr. Ross L. Wilson in the morning brought the total of assisting personnel to 53.

Those present were able to hear the inauguration over a radio supplied by Harold Knipe, operator of a radio and television store, who also furnished a phonograph to go with the music records supplied by Stroudsburg Music.

There were dozens of sideliners throughout the day.

One woman, Mrs. Sally Repher, East Stroudsburg, wife of a serviceman, who gave blood two months ago, is striving to give a gallon. She was among those turned away. She left reluctantly, stating that she'd return during the next campaign for blood.

Of the 345 pints collected, 135 pints were from women.

Donors were from all parts of the community. Ages ranged from 18-year-old high school students from both boroughs, carrying their parents' consent with them, to 59-year-old merchants.

Rev. Campbell had promised a steak dinner to cooperating members of the ministerium if the 300-pint quota was reached. Last night he was preparing plans for the dinner.

A number of the factories, mills and heavy industries in Stroudsburg gave their employees time off to visit the church and contribute blood. The employees lost no pay during the time they were absent.

Blood drive officials discussed industry's cooperation in such terms as "fine," "outstanding," "100 per cent cooperative and helpful."

Next visit of the bloodmobile will be February 25, under sponsorship of St. Matthew's Church, East Stroudsburg, under supervision of Father Harold Durkin.

The bloodmobile makes a different stop each day. Monday it was at Summit Hill. Today it is at Wilkes-Barre Veterans Hospital.

Behind the Russian Purge

There is a great deal more than meets the eye in the vicious switch of the Soviet dictatorship to violent anti-Semitism, which has cropped up with alarming regularity recently.

The technique of the mass purge has been used by the Soviets—as it was by Adolf Hitler—to divert the attention of the people from failures of their regime. There were the purges of the 1920s, directed against engineers and scientists; another in the mid-30s against the Trotskyites, and the post-war drive on deviationists in the satellite countries. More recently came the purge of Jewish officials in Czechoslovakia, accused of Zionism and spying for the United States, and the later incredible charges against nine doctors that they were attempting to murder the Communist hierarchy. They followed that one with indictment of the Secret Police for laxity in not uncovering the plot.

There are various interpretations of the causes behind this latest outburst by the Communists. Some reason that the vicious propaganda campaign against the Jews is part of a campaign to bid for sympathy and support in the Arab world. Another reason advanced is that Moscow may have turned its hatred against the Jews in hopes of wooing all of Germany over to its side. Still another is that since the purge seems to have moved into Moscow itself, the Russians are using it as a smokescreen to cover serious internal disturbances and a growing unrest on their own doorstep.

Not that Russia has lessened its "hate America" campaign, but it would appear that in that alone they have not given the Russian people enough to take their minds off the troubles at home. Throughout their evil propaganda against the Jews runs the skein of "hate America," for they have linked each Jew tagged for extinction as an "American-English" warmonger. Thus the double purpose is served.

Anti-Semitism as a diversion was carried to its most horrible end by Hitler, who climbed to power over the broken bodies of men, women and children. He needed scapegoats to keep from the minds of the German people the follies and wickedness of his rule. Stalin now follows in the footsteps of his one-time evil ally. He is seeking to whip up mass hatred.

The bitter and personal anti-Semitism and the charges of Jewish terrorism by the most violent terrorists of all time, bring out in sharp relief the criminal ends to which Stalin will go to gain a point or to cover up serious failures internally. He stands indicted before the world as a man of unequalled evil.

Superfluous Warning

Maurice J. Tobin, retiring Secretary of Labor, overlooked an important circumstance when he said, in a farewell statement, election of Republicans should not be taken as a mandate to destroy unions. Such an interpretation would be as fantastic as it would be unwarranted. Without question, labor votes were a large factor in electing Eisenhower and his runningmate just as, something more than two years ago, labor votes were a factor in the re-election of Taft as United States Senator from Ohio. What the Republican party must not forget is this—that a great host of union men, voting as citizens with the welfare of their country foremost in mind, have given the party a vote of confidence.

The Once Over —by H. I. Phillips

Inaugural Day By TV

We tuned in early to get the Greatest Inaugural Show on Earth. . . . Very good, too. . . . First video show we had seen in months without a ballet. . . . The new boy, Dwight Eisenhower, came over well. . . . He had crossed channels before but this was the first time he had seen so many. . . . Harry Truman was okay, considering he had never appeared in an elephant act before. . . . The wife was disappointed. . . . She's a confirmed video addict and thought it a failure because she didn't endorse a cigarette offer for a jackpot, give a cooking lesson or play the ukulele. . . . We had trouble getting a clear picture for a while. . . . (Democrats in the mechanism or something.) . . . We kept getting a double image of Truman. . . . Seemed to be two of him. . . . (We didn't mind, but there were Republicans in our living room.) . . . The appearance of an Alaskan dog team worried us until we got assurance this didn't indicate that Ike was going to bring back the old ginger ale hour to radio. . . . Our set had a lot of snow in it, but we had to wait for the picture of Ike and Harry together to get ice. . . . The picture rolled a lot at one point. . . . Due to three political commentators simultaneously trying to explain the significance of the change in administration. . . . At another point the characters began jumping all over the screen. . . . Seems the Democratic National Committee and the GOP National Committee had met head-on at the approaches to the reviewing stands. . . . Two hours after the Inaugural broadcast had been on the wife was still complaining. . . . She said Ike and Harry had been on for a good part of the morning and hadn't won an electric dishwasher, an icebox or 100 cartons of soap powder yet. . . . (She's a Republican, but she never would have voted for Ike if she had known it would mean almost a whole day of video and radio without "Tide" and Groom.") "Art Linkletter's 'House Party,'" or a single recipe for making a macaroni pie. . . . (If the new President hadn't got off video in time for "I Love Lucy" she would have formed a third party.)

It was really a top video attraction. . . . Truman left quietly. . . . Ike took the oath and promised to correct his backswing and not be too hard on Harry for leaving things in the shape he did. . . . Harry brought his own bible and promised to turn over the Presidential yacht and plane, and keep off the White House telephone. . . . The group that took longest passing a given point was the outgoing economic experts, a twenty-year accumulation. . . . (They were out of step as usual but insisted it made no difference so long as they had only one shoe on backwards.) . . . I thought the Republicans limped badly in the parade. . . . Why not? It had been a long time since they had been in a big parade. . . . If what came over my video set was a simple Inaugural, the Tallulah Bankhead TV shows must be mere rehearsals of bit parts. . . . Every band-leader, Hollywood star, Broadway comic and Met Opera singer seemed to be there. . . . There were moments when we feared the next President of the United States would be able to get into the act only by a lawsuit. . . . Tomorrow: Back to Howdy Doody, six ways to make raised biscuits and the quiz programs. . . .

Russia is the one country where a man can be shot so prominent he can be shot for it. . . . Senator Wayne Morse raises cattle on the side, but still can't figure out who sold him the "bull" on the last election. . . . Sarcasm visitor observing a price tag of $30,000 on a cruiser. "It's a steal, bub." . . . Arthur Godfrey has spent 20 years on the radio. . . . That's an awful long time to be out of work. . . . Song for Russians. . . .

To please our Joe Means lots of sorrow: It's here today and Gone tomorrow. . . .

Harry Truman, before boxing out, told Americans they were getting one and a half times more money today than 20 years ago. Which means that since you have to pay twice as much for what you get you have the wonderful feeling that comes with being in a deeper hole than ever. . . . Senate Song of Wayne Morse Once we took him to our bosom We were buddies, one and all, But he's now become the picture pie. . . . (If the new President hadn't got off video in time for "I Love Lucy" she would have formed a third party.)

Keller Was Eisenhower's Choice For Defense Chief

Robert S. Allen Reports - - By Robert S. Allen

Washington — There is an interesting disclosure in those unpublished transcripts of the Senate Armed Services Committee on the Cabinet eligibility of Charles E. Wilson. . . . This un-revealed item is that the former head of General Motors was not President Eisenhower's first choice for Secretary of Defense. . . . The man the new President really wanted for this key office is K. T. Keller, brilliant boss of Chrysler Corporation, who has been on leave for many months in order to direct the fabulous guided missiles activities of the armed services. His little known Pentagon title is Director of Guided Missiles. . . .

Only after Keller turned down the Defense portfolio, did Eisenhower offer it to Wilson. . . . That was definitely established during the secret Senate hearings. . . . The unreported information is unquestionably playing a role in the backstage deliberations on Wilson's eligibility. . . . While Keller is in no way involved in this controversy, the fact he was Eisenhower's first preference and declined solely because of desire to continue the crucial work he is doing in developing new weapons is influencing the attitude of both Republican and Democrat leaders toward Wilson. . . . Also, the General Motors chief is not as popular among senators as Keller. . . . The inside Senate story on the Chrysler president is as follows: . . . During a campaign speech in Detroit, President Eisenhower specifically mentioned Keller as the type of outstanding business leader who would be named to the Cabinet if the GOP won. But, later, when Keller was asked to become Secretary of Defense he declined on two grounds. . . . These were that he lacked political experience and that he wanted to finish the job he is doing for the country in developing guided missiles. . . . As related in the Senate, Keller told Eisenhower, "Your Secretary of Defense should be a good politician and I don't fill that bill. I don't know anything about politics and I'm not inclined to learn."

Now his routine is familiar. But we don't recall his face! . . . The International Red Cross sorrowfully reports that Soviet Russia and her satellites are the first nations in modern history to snub the most respected banner of human kindness on earth. The Red Cross flag has meant pity, succor and rescue to civilized nations through the long years. But it has remained for the Communies to spit on it. . . . The raccoon is found only in North and Central America, from Alaska in the north to Costa Rica in the south. . . . The American author William Dean Howells was known as the "dean of American letters." . . . The amoeba is the simplest form of animal life. . . . Potassium salts are found in all fertile soils. . . .

Significant Stand — Newly-installed Interior Douglas McKay voiced some highly significant views on public power during the secret committee hearings on his appointment. . . . The former Oregon Governor disclosed that he is opposed to turning over the government's public power projects to private utilities. That is being vigorously advocated by Charles Wilson, former head of General Electric, who directed the rearmament program until he split with former President Truman. . . . McKay revealed his position during close questioning by Senators James Murray (D. Mont.) and Henry Jackson (D. Wash.). . . .

American Penetration Of Kremlin Indicated By Stalin's Latest Campaign Against Jews

These Days - - - - - By George Sokolsky

The Czar's Worth

The anti-Semitism of Joe Stalin is nothing novel. He displayed it during the Hitler - Stalin alliance when he dismissed Litvinov because he was a Jew. . . . Why does Stalin propagate his hatred for the Jews at the present time? There is much speculation on the subject. Some believe that it is done to please the Arabs, who are not likely to be taken in because Moslems are a religious people, are uncompromising in their love for God and the prophet, Mohammed. They will not risk association with the arch-atheist who competes with God, who has icons of himself carried in parades, who demands adoration and worship of himself, who insists that he is omniscient and that his decisions on all questions from linguistics to philosophy, are perfect, beyond discussion and beyond doubt. The Arabs will not fall for that. . . . Some believe that Stalin is having domestic troubles and that his throne is endangered. There seems to be no evidence of that, although the Korean War has been a failure in the sense that it gets nowhere and the conquest of Asia has been arrested. . . . Also, the fact that he has indicated who his successor is to be must have stifled the ambitions of others. Yet, it cannot be that in the privacy of the Politburo and the intrigues of the Kremlin it has not been known for a long time that Malenkov was the favorite. . . . He had for years been Stalin's secretary and heir-apparent and beloved even as a son. Whatever opposition to Malenkov appeared in one form or another must have been liquidated either by breaking the spirit of a man or killing him off. . . . It seems to me from a 36-year study of the Bolsheviks at work that what Stalin is beating up is an increased hatred against the United States. Shouting about "Wall Street" has become tiresome to those who have to listen to it. And the charge that we throw germs out of airplanes was a nine days' wonder. . . . And then the election went very wrong from Stalin's standpoint. No longer will the State Department blow hot and act cold and protect American Communists and spies in the United Nations or within the State Department itself. Certainly, nothing of that sort can be expected from John Foster Dulles, who started off by asking the FBI to investigate his own record as a prelude to a clean sweep of the department. And Herbert Brownell Jr. will not put blindfolds on the Department of Justice when Communist or subversive cases come before it. And it is likely that the FBI will come into its own and will be respected as to its authority. Stalin knows that when his spy, Arthur Adams, escaped from the United States, it was not because of the FBI's unawareness of the scoundrel's activities in this country. . . . My guess, no better or worse than anyone else's, is that Stalin is aiming at the United States, whipping up a fear that certain

My guess, no better or worse than anyone else's, is that Stalin is aiming at the United States, whipping up a fear that certain Soviet citizens are acting not only as American spies but as American murderers. In a word, what he asserts is that the United States has actually penetrated the Kremlin, the holy of holies of the Communist world. And that the United States has plotted with pretended Communists to murder all the leaders of the party. . . . What Russians? What Czechs? What Hungarians? What are their names? There Stalin is in difficulties. So he calls them, "they." And the "they" are Jews. That has been the "they" whenever a tyrant required a scapegoat or a whipping boy. He has had many examples and many predecessors in the use of this device. . . . By picking Jewish doctors he frightens everybody. If America has penetrated Russia via Jewish doctors, anybody who employs a Jewish doctor—and they happen to be the best in Soviet Russia—may be killed! That shows how bad the United States can be. . . . A great many Jews will be killed in this new campaign. Some of them are important scientists and scholars. . . . What now, Dr. Albert Einstein? Why not write a letter to Joe Stalin like the one you wrote to Judge Irving Kaufman about clemency for the Rosenbergs? Why not, Dr. Einstein and Rabbi Abba Hillel Silver? Why not write Stalin pleading for mercy for innocent people! . . .

Guanabara bay, in Brazil, is large enough to hold the ships of all of the navies in the world. . . . Men and apes are said to be the only creatures on earth whose eyes can be focused for different distances. . . .

My theater-going acquaintance with Shirley goes back to Philip Barry's The Philadelphia Story. I had eyes then only for Kate in that candy-striped blouse and those diaphanous gowns, but when I had come out into the clear, cold night air I realized that while I had yearned for the Hepburn for three hours, I had seen a quietly spectacular piece of acting by Miss Booth. Kate was the showpiece. Shirley was the actress. . . . There were other Booth plays that came along, some of them not so gilt-edged, but all of them containing lustrous little jewels of portrayals by the woman with the pink hair. A couple of years ago she came along in the Inge play, Sheba, a modest but not genius-speckled drama, and the critics hereabouts seemed to spend most of their time praising Sidney Blackmer, the male lead. Sidney was good. He didn't bat in Shirley's league. . . . Then came A Tree Grows in Brooklyn, in which the Booth's performance as Aunt Cissy lifted a mediocre musical right up into the clouds, and finally this year's Time of the Cuckoo, which would not now be running on Broadway except for the woman with the pink hair. . . . My amazement stems from this: I have met Miss Booth, and if I ever saw anyone less like an actress, I don't remember. . . . It was during the run of A Tree; she invited me up to her west mid-town apartment for a talk and some coffee. I came to meet one of those neurotic, taut dames underneath whose restless charm—turned on for the press—smoldered the makings of a nervous breakdown. . . . and instead I met my Aunt Minnie. . . . I do not mean that the Booth is a motherly, gray-haired Aunt Minnie type, like Whistler's grandparent. I mean that she was comfortable and housewife and a little uneasy when the conversation got around to the Art of acting. . . . I remember a cat being around (I understand it committed suicide sometime later by jumping off a ledge), and she spent a lot of her time wondering about the cat's welfare and whether her plants were watered. . . . It was almost as if show business had passed right over her head, in spite of the fact she had lived most of her life in it. If I remember rightly, she even evoked a little about her rather full-blown figure, in this day and age when the average actress who sits down in a corner of Sardi's for luncheon usually orders melba toast and tea. . . . Once in a while when I am real brave I will inch out on a limb with an actress and ask her to talk about her methods of acting—does she use the Stanislavsky pitch, for example, and live her role—but I wouldn't have dared, with Booth. I think she would have laughed in my face. Her creed is simple. If you are an actress, you act. . . . When you see "Sheba", and if you keep in mind what I tell you now, of Miss Booth's being as natural as an old shoe, I suspect the hair will curl along the nape of your neck, as it does on mine. It is as if a poltergeist has slipped into that full-blown body of hers, or an elf has possessed her soul. . . . Offstage, Shirley is the nice dame across the hall from whom you borrow the vermouth on Friday night. Onstage, she is never anyone else at all but the woman of the drama. When I saw her do Sheba on Broadway, and before I met her, I was convinced it was pure typecasting. When I did go up to meet her, I felt sure I would encounter the amiable, stupid, wistful little slattern, fumbling around the house in slippers and wrapper. . . . One or two other performers have afforded me something like the same feeling—I find it hard to believe that the coy, unmanly offstage Marlon Brando is the same man who has that sweep and power in a theater—but none has touched the Booth. We are living in the era of at least one great actress. Fossils in the rear row will kindly stop mentioning, to me, Duse and Mrs. Pat Campbell. . . .

"More people die by the knife and fork than by the gun and the sword," Dr. Victor E. Levine of Omaha, Neb., recently told the American Association for the Advancement of Science — and truer words were never spoken. . . . Americans eat entirely too much, he maintained, and this helps to bring on high blood pressure, heart, kidney and brain ailments. . . . By contrast, high blood pressure is rare among Chinese, Japanese, Koreans, Hindus and other Asiatic and African peoples. . . . One thing most of us strive for is prosperity. . . . But it is that very prosperity which causes us to live too high—and overeating certainly is one of the most common practices of high living. . . . The Africans, the Chinese and all those other "moderate" people are not moderate because they are smarter than we, or more moral. They are moderate primarily because they have to be. They simply cannot afford to "live high." . . . Another great disease producer, says Dr. Levine, is our "way of life." . . . We are go-getters and eager beavers. We don't take time out to rest, to relax, to do nothing. . . . My New York —By Mel Heimer

New York—In a couple of months' time, the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences will meet in some Hollywood movie house or other and present an Oscar to Shirley Booth as the best actress of the year. Among real actors, the turn-in value of an Oscar is pretty low, because of the motley nature of previous winners, but nevertheless it will be an oh-Lordy shame if Miss Booth is not gifted with one for her work in Come Back, Little Sheba. This is Barrymore stuff. . . . When she receives it, my amazement will be complete. . . . My theater-going acquaintance with Shirley goes back to Philip Barry's The Philadelphia Story. It is as if a poltergeist has slipped into that full-blown body of hers, or an elf has possessed her soul. . . . Offstage, Shirley is the nice dame across the hall from whom you borrow the vermouth on Friday night. Onstage, she is never anyone else at all but the woman of the drama. When I saw her do Sheba on Broadway, and before I met her, I was convinced it was pure typecasting. When I did go up to meet her, I felt sure I would encounter the amiable, stupid, wistful little slattern, fumbling around the house in slippers and wrapper. . . . One or two other performers have afforded me something like the same feeling—I find it hard to believe that the coy, unmanly offstage Marlon Brando is the same man who has that sweep and power in a theater—but none has touched the Booth. We are living in the era of at least one great actress. Fossils in the rear row will kindly stop mentioning, to me, Duse and Mrs. Pat Campbell. . . .

My theater-going acquaintance with Shirley goes back to Philip Barry's The Philadelphia Story. I had eyes then only for Kate in that candy-striped blouse and those diaphanous gowns, but when I had come out into the clear, cold night air I realized that while I had yearned for the Hepburn for three hours, I had seen a quietly spectacular piece of acting by Miss Booth. Kate was the showpiece. Shirley was the actress. . . . There were other Booth plays that came along, some of them not so gilt-edged, but all of them containing lustrous little jewels of portrayals by the woman with the pink hair. A couple of years ago she came along in the Inge play, Sheba, a modest but not genius-speckled drama, and the critics hereabouts seemed to spend most of their time praising Sidney Blackmer, the male lead. Sidney was good. He didn't bat in Shirley's league. . . . Then came A Tree Grows in Brooklyn, in which the Booth's performance as Aunt Cissy lifted a mediocre musical right up into the clouds, and finally this year's Time of the Cuckoo, which would not now be running on Broadway except for the woman with the pink hair. . . . My amazement stems from this: I have met Miss Booth, and if I ever saw anyone less like an actress, I don't remember. . . . It was during the run of A Tree; she invited me up to her west mid-town apartment for a talk and some coffee. I came to meet one of those neurotic, taut dames underneath whose restless charm—turned on for the press—smoldered the makings of a nervous breakdown. . . . and instead I met my Aunt Minnie. . . . I do not mean that the Booth is a motherly, gray-haired Aunt Minnie type, like Whistler's grandparent. I mean that she was comfortable and housewife and a little uneasy when the conversation got around to the Art of acting. . . . I remember a cat being around (I understand it committed suicide sometime later by jumping off a ledge), and she spent a lot of her time wondering about the cat's welfare and whether her plants were watered. . . . It was almost as if show business had passed right over her head, in spite of the fact she had lived most of her life in it. If I remember rightly, she even evoked a little about her rather full-blown figure, in this day and age when the average actress who sits down in a corner of Sardi's for luncheon usually orders melba toast and tea. . . . Once in a while when I am real brave I will inch out on a limb with an actress and ask her to talk about her methods of acting—does she use the Stanislavsky pitch, for example, and live her role—but I wouldn't have dared, with Booth. I think she would have laughed in my face. Her creed is simple. If you are an actress, you act. . . . When you see "Sheba", and if you keep in mind what I tell you now, of Miss Booth's being as natural as an old shoe, I suspect the hair will curl along the nape of your neck, as it does on mine. ### Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

That look of being in a trance in which most people were moving around about supper time came from the many hours of steady staring at a television screen. A housewife, standing behind the meat counter, could hardly be blamed for having trouble in deciding between hot dogs and hamburger, when in her mind she was still part of world-shaping events.

However, most people could look away during the crowd shots but not the Westbrooks and Jordans who looked their eyes out for glimpses of their daughters. Never did see them, but there they were right in with the Congressmen from Texas and Tennessee on the steps of the Capitol.

Rather a confused report we got from them last night when they pulled in—mostly adjectives, and rejoicing. When the presidential cars passed they were close enough to see the President wipe his eyes and the First Lady adjust her hat, and the President's hair is much more blond than grey, and they never did see Truman, and there are 8 hundred and the exact number of steps in the Washington Monument, and Monday was so foggy we couldn't see the tops of the buildings so they went all the way to end of the trolley line looking for the Capitol, and well, maybe we'll get it straightened out tomorrow.

However, they weren't alone in being unable to see Dorothy Maynor. All the local people who'd been to hear her in the last Community Concert here was watching her, but only the top of her head stuck out over the microphones. Her voice, though, soared to the heavens, didn't it?

Well, Monroe County will have good reason to remember inauguration day, too. That was the day they went over the top in the highest blood donor program this county has ever seen. There was something tremendous about that crowd, too.

If President Eisenhower can make his prayer come true, and if Monroe County can keep up its mighty heart, seems as if there isn't much we couldn't accomplish in the years to come.

Miss Kulp's guest, a little boy recovering from a polio attack, was a living illustration of chapter services.

Music Parents Postpone Meeting For One Week

The Music Parents of Stroudsburg High School have postponed their January meeting from Monday, January 20, to Monday February 2, because changes in the basketball schedule have changed a game to the regular meeting night.

Ernest Michelfelder, president, announced that at the meeting a special musical program will be presented by Numa Snyder and John Pyle.

If I remember correctly, Edgar A. Guest once wrote a poem about the most neglected guest at a wedding...

The bride's father is spotlighted for one brief, glorious instant as he gives her in marriage. The bridegroom's mother also rates a full share of attention because everyone (every woman, at least) is speculating about her feelings toward her new daughter-in-law. But the father of the groom! He could arrive in overalls with a mop over his shoulder, and no one would mention it except to wonder why the janitor didn't delay the cleaning up until the rice had been tossed.

Maybe someone should organize a society for the Recognition and Applauding of Fathers of Bridegrooms. And maybe some enterprising woman should spearhead a movement for the Recognition and Honoring of First Ladies Immediately Prior To and Following Ceremonies of Inauguration.

This occurred to me yesterday as I sat (courtesy of Gene Kauter of our Sears office) in Sears' television repair room and watched the proceedings in Washington skim by. Somewhere there was Mamie, done to her teeth in her Sunday best, with tears of pride and triumph in her eyes and a smile on her lips... but who could be sure which was she? She could have been the little lady in the tiny, button trimmed bonnet an arm's length from Ike, but no one operating the cameras seemed to care. And only a crystal ball could have located Second Lady Pat Nixon or the new First Daughter-in-Law of the land.

If it hadn't been for the fleeting glimpse of an orchid corsage and a feminine face above it that came near the end of the ceremony, or for Ike, rushing across the platform to whisper a few words of affection to a lady whom he later escorted to the foreground, one would never have been sure that Mamie was even there. Even this recognition was brief. Ike was suddenly whipped back into line and Mamie was once again lost somewhere in the shuffle.

As a woman and private citizen, I object. I feel that my fellow Americans would much prefer to see an about-to-be-President take the stage walking with, and sitting beside his wife. I believe too that while her husband's views on world peace are more important than her own, the people would enjoy watching her expression while he voices them. And I dare say, Mamie's face was much more interesting during Ike's oath-taking, than that of the secret service man who loomed boldly in the background.

Yet even while I complain about the picture editors and their sorry neglect of the diffid side at the inauguration... or the blatant bad manners of whomever it is that ignores First Ladies when ceremonies are planned, I'm very much in favor of television. Thanks to this incredible invention, I saw history unfold more completely and comfortably than if I'd been right there on the platform, seated next to Fred Waring, our fellow Monroe Countian. Those of us who haven't succumbed to the lure of TV are missing a lot. A television set isn't just a luxury—it's an investment. And it's as necessary to "being up on things" as is a radio set and the daily newspaper.

There are about 100 kinds of woods.

When Sashes Stick

Hardened paint or dampness may cause a window sash to stick. In the case of excessive moisture, the wood in the sash and its frame swells and this swelling causes the sash to bind. Trouble usually appears when the wood dries. Before any corrective work is undertaken, it is advisable to see whether a thorough coating with beeswax will relieve the friction.

Chinese Reds Send Propaganda To American Followers Of Universal Language Esperanto

By James B. Gaffney

The Chinese Communists are pressing an artificial language into working order to sell their propaganda in the United States.

Verification of the literary salesmanship comes from a Monroe County man who learned to read Esperanto, the auxiliary language devised by a Russian and publicized throughout the world as the answer to solving some dire international problems through understanding of one tongue.

Eugene Lake, a retired mechanical engineer and naval architect who lives two miles west of Stroudsburg along Route 209, is an avid follower of Esperanto and only recently a publication from People's China reached him.

Lake explains his name evidently was secured from old records of the Esperanto League, an international organization formed to promote adoption of the language. The league's yearbook annually listed its membership and their addresses. But Lake's tie with the league, while severed many years ago, still appears in copies dating back many years and he opines the name and address were secured from this information source.

History of the Esperanto language dates back to 1887 when Dr. L. Zamenhof adopted the pseudonym "Dr. Esperanto." The vocabulary is based, as far as possible, upon words common to the chief European languages and sounds peculiar to any one language are eliminated.

The spelling is phonetic and accent always is on the penult, or last syllable. Not difficult to master, the auxiliary language was invented to create harmony between foreign-speaking nations and its ultimate reasoning has developed friendship between many individuals.

A Catholic priest who at one time was placed in charge of prisoners in Austria aided in putting the language across, Lake recalled. The priest, Father Cseh realized his only answer to harmony within the prison walls was to get the inmates to speak one language, and launched a teaching career that proved quite successful.

Though his teachings the prisoners soon were able to communicate with each other and the method of teaching since has been adopted on a wide scale. Lake estimates that from eight to nine million persons throughout the world can speak or read Esperanto today.

guage about 1914. Sitting in the living room at his Maine home his wife called his attention to an article in a national magazine, relating the essence of the language and pointing out its potentialities.

A short time later, while in Boston, Mass., the naval engineer met several men who expressed a similar desire to learn Esperanto and the instructions began.

In New York City's Esperanto Club, Lake furthered his education of the artificial language, attending classes periodically until he could read well. But without associates to converse with, Lake admits his knowledge of Esperanto stops at reading, with speaking the language limited.

Esperanto, which means "one who hopes," has brought new excitement into Lake's life. Some correspondence arising out of the language has proven humorous, like letters from a 20-year-old Romanian girl who described herself as "blonde-blue-eyed and an office worker," expecting, evidently, a romance to bloom. But Lake jokingly says "She certainly didn't know I was a grandfather." And a similar mail courtship was started by a young girl in Brazil who dropped the Monroe man like "a hot potato" when she learned his age.

But other correspondence has proved important in many ways.

Like the letter from Norway asking Lake for children's clothing; and a series of communications between a young South American who needed a special type wood for boats and the resulting transfer of mail which led to securing the rare timber in the South Seas.

Lake has a sister in Detroit,

Mich., who also is an avid follower of the artificial language, but locally he can find no companionship. He has suggested a study group be formed and assured that a competent instructor from the New York Club probably would come here to teach the language.

Having traveled the world over,

Lake finds frequent occasions to apply Esperanto. As a naval architect who graduated from college in 1900, his adventures have taken him and his wife to all states in the Union, and to many European countries. The couple has two children, one residing in New York City and the other in Clinton, N. J.

Lake's present work is inventions, and to date he has secured patents for three of his devices, one of which enables firms to make roofing shingle by machinery.

Undulant fever in man is said to have been detected first in the United States in 1905.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Often times when an athlete fan is comparing the merits of various teams while enjoying his favorite sport, the size of the school or schools featuring the team or teams is bound to come up for discussion. Discussions of this type aren't the least bit uncommon in this area, and with the help of the January issue of The Pathelete, official publication of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association, I thought it might be interesting if we would take a look at the size of the various high schools that send athletic squads into action in the Stroudsburg and surrounding territory.

Dr. Frank Maguire, commissioner of PIAA officials and a resident of East Stroudsburg, is assistant editor of the Pathelete, while Mark Funk, executive director of the PIAA, is editor of the publication. I'm sure that the size of several schools campaigning in the Lehigh Valley League, Lehigh-Northampton League and the Wayne County Conference, as far as enrollment is concerned, will surprise you, just as it did this scribe.

Stroudsburg High's enrollment is 532 and of class "A" calibre. Although the East Stroudsburg High enrollment is below the required class "A" figure of 500, the Cavaliers have received permission to campaign as a class "A" school. The enrollment up on N. Courtland St. is currently listed at 482 pupils. Bangor, in the same league as East Stroudsburg, features an enrollment of 553 students. Catawauqua has a high school of 314 students, but like East Stroudsburg operates as a class "A" athletic power.

Coplay, annually a big gun in Lehigh-Northampton League basketball, has only 138 members in the high school student body, while Emmaus features 651 students in its top grades. Fountain Hill, currently coasting along as the leading team in the Lehigh-Northampton League, has a high school enrollment of 363 pupils and campaigns as a class "B" power, while Hellertown, another annual cage big deal in the Lehigh-Northampton League, has only 243 students in its high school, but takes part in the class "B" division of the Pennsylvania and District 11.

Lehigh, the big disappointment in the Lehigh Valley League at present, as far as basketball is concerned, has an enrollment of 593 students, while Nazareth, always highly regarded as a football power, has 663 pupils in its top grades and Northampton High is the largest school, as far as enrollment is concerned, in either the Lehigh Valley or Lehigh-Northampton leagues, with a 705 pupil count. Palmerton, annually a Lehigh Valley League power in all sports, has a count of 540 high school students, while Parkland, another annual basketball king in the Lehigh-Northampton League, draws its athletic material from 540 students each year.

Pen Argyl, Bangor's arch rival in all sports, has a high school enrollment of 363 students, while Slatington, Stroudsburg's basketball opponent last night, draws its athletic talent from a total of 556 pupils. Whitehall and Wilson Borough, always among the cream of the crop in sports, feature a total of 575 and 703 students respectively. White Haven, another District 11 school that meets Tobyhanna Township High, of the Monroe County League, next Monday, has a total of only 142 students in its top grades.

Greene-Dreher-Sterling, the Wayne County Conference school of which we know the most about, has an enrollment of 113 students, while Damascus, where Carl Bell, an East Stroudsburg State Teachers College graduate, coaches, has only 99 students in the upper grades from which to draw a basketball and baseball team each year. Waymart High, always the basketball power of the Wayne County Conference, has a high school enrollment of 159 students, while Hawley features 220 and Honesdale can draw from 333 high school pupils. Lake Township has a 169 total in the high school, while Moscow features 155 and Northern Wayne, currently undefeated against circuit opposition, has only 78 students in the high school.

Pleasant Mount, the ninth Wayne County Conference club, has 108 pupils in the top grades. Matamoras and Milford, members of District 12, as are the Wayne County Conference entries, have 100 and 113 high school students respectively. It is often remarkable how some schools turn out winning teams year after year with low enrollment totals, while other schools with higher enrollments find it tough picking up victories each season.

It was also revealed in the latest Pathelete that Al Bibalo and Herb Lee, both of Pleasant Mount High, of the Wayne County Conference, were approved for participation in sports by the PIAA at a recent meeting. There was some question as to their eligibility until the recent meeting. The writer hopes to see the day that the Monroe County League teams join the PIAA. A move of this type would certainly improve the circuit.

East Stroudsburg Wins First Basketball Contest

Chase Sets Pace For Cavaliers In Nod Over Pen Argyl, 55-40

Pen Argyl—Captain Joe Chase and his East Stroudsburg High basketball mates banded together for strong second and third quarters last night and swept to the their first victory of the season, with a convincing 55-40 verdict over Pen Argyl High in a Lehigh-Northampton League contest played here on the losing team's home boards.

The Cavaliers enjoyed a perfect night as the East Stroudsburg junior varsity, under the guidance of Coach Del Davis, ran up a 60-34 victory over Pen Argyl in the preliminary.

Pen Argyl held a slim 10-9 advantage at the end of the first quarter, but the determined charges of Coach Dick Foster kicked up their heels in the second round for a grand total of 19 points, while the junior and sophomore studded East Stroudsburg defense held Pen Argyl to two field goals and one foul shot during eight minutes of play. The Forstermen led at half-time, 28-15, and were never threatened in the second half.

The Cavaliers held a 14-10 advantage in the third round and entered the home stretch on the long end of a 42-24 score.

No Danger
East Stroudsburg sent a total of 12 men, every player on the squad, into the battle during the final period, while Pen Argyl was scoring 15 points to 13 for the Cavaliers. However, the home team never threatened to change the outcome of the game.

The victory was the first in 10 games for the Cavaliers and it allowed the tenants of the N. Courtland St. gym to move out of last place in the Lehigh-Northampton League.

Chase had his best night of the season, racking up 19 points on seven goals from the floor and five from the foul line, with Bill Penney and Don Herman next in line with 10 tallies respectively. Vern Shaplin and Tom Bellis, each with 10 points, led the Pen Argyl attack.

East Stroudsburg made 17 of 29 foul shots, while Pen Argyl could hit on only 20 of 40 charity tosses. The Cavaliers return to action on Friday, when they play at Nazareth, then return home for a battle with Stroudsburg next Wednesday.

Fans Help Rio Grande Win

Troy, O., 67—Cedarville stalled and played "possessive ball" in an unsuccessful attempt to stop the nation's top college basketball scorer but lost the game when furious fans forced them to play regular ball last night.

Rio Grande won the game, 66-29, and its Clarence "Bevo" Francis scored 38 points.

Average Down
The stalling tactics did lower Francis' game average of 50 for 22 games.

Francis, who recently set a new national scoring mark, now has 1,146 points for 23 games. Rio Grande had been averaging 100 points a game.

Barbers Clip Diner In Industrial Tilt

Frank's Barbers clipped the East Stroudsburg Diner in an Industrial League game at the Monroe County YMCA last night, 58-50, while DeVivo's Shoemen rallied to defeat the Indians, 59-56, in an exhibition contest played as the second half of a doubleheader.

The Barbers were never behind in the Industrial League battle, leading 18-9 at the end of the first quarter and 30-25 at the halfway mark.

Although the Diner club held a 15-13 edge in the third quarter, the Barbers never threatened to fall out of the picture and came back to dominate the third round, 15-10.

Big Spurt
DeVivo's had to wind up with a brilliant 19-point spurt in the final stanza to shake the Indians loose from apparent victory, after the Redmen had led at halftime, 35-23. The winning aggregation held a 17-13 edge in the third period, but the 19-8 advantage during the final eight minutes of play decided the contest.

Jim Frailey scored 21 points for the Indians, while Henry "Hank" Stetler, with 19 tallies, was the big gun in a losing cause.

Second Period Fatal To Mountaineers

Slatington — Stroudsburg High couldn't match Slatington in the second period here at Smith Hall last night and the Mountaineers went down to their 10th defeat in 11 trips to the hardwood, 64-52. The loss left the Stroudsburg cagers still in last place in the Lehigh Valley League.

Stroudsburg picked up a measure of revenge in the preliminary game, as the Mountaineers decided the Slatington junior varsity, 51-47. Dave Nevil led the winning attack with a total of 21 points.

The Mountaineers were in the thick of the battle in every quarter except the second last night and that one lapse proved to be the downfall of the Sam Russell coached contingent.

Slatington held a 15-13 advantage in an evenly contested first period, but the home team really turned the tide in the second round, 12-5, and went out in front by a 27-18 margin at the halfway mark.

Increases Edge
Slatington added four more valuable points to its lead in the third quarter by holding a 19-15 advantage. Stroudsburg struck back with a one-point edge in the last quarter, 19-18, but it wasn't nearly enough to turn the tide of battle.

Byron "Chick" Miller, as has been the case in almost every game this season, led the Stroudsburg scoring attack with 16 points, on six goals from the floor and four from the free-throw line. Only one member of the Slatington quintet failed to break into the scoring column.

Stroudsburg made 14 of 29 shots from the foul line, while Slatington hit the mark on 22 of 35 heaves from the same distance.

The Mountaineers play at Northampton on Friday, return home with Palmerton next Monday and then clash with East Stroudsburg, on the latter's home court, next Wednesday.

Turner Turns Dykes Into Punching Bag While Winning Clear Cut Decision In Ten Rounds

Philadelphia (AP)—Young Gill Turner used the highly rated Bobby Dykes for a punching bag last night as he pounded out a unanimous 10-round decision over the tall Texan who seemed to have his mind everywhere but in the arena ring. Turner weighed 149½ and Dykes 154 for the bout that drew boos, catcalls and stamping of feet because of its long moments of inaction.

Dykes, who calls both Miami, Fla., and San Antonio, Tex., his home, started out strong, but apparently the strenuous efforts he

Browns Trade Infielders With Chisox

Chicago (AP)—The Chicago White Sox obtained infielder Fred Marsh from the St. Louis Browns for first sacker R. T. "Dixie" Upright and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Two Clubs
Marsh, who was regular third baseman for the Browns in 1951, was traded to the Washington Senators at the start of the 1952 season and then reacquired by the Browns in mid-June, finishing as regular shortstop.

Upright had a trial with the White Sox last spring and then was optioned to Memphis of the Southern Association, batting .318 in 124 games. He also plays out field.

made to take off pounds for this fight sapped his strength and he was a standup target for the fast punching Philadelphia welterweight. Dykes announced prior to this fight he was deserting the 147 pound ranks to become a middleweight and entered himself in the 160 pound tournament to determine a successor to the retired Sugar Ray Robinson.

A crowd of 8,160 fans paid $45.-859 to sit in the hot, sticky Arena for a match that figured to be a corking good contest. Dykes had won a split decision over Turner in Madison Square Garden, last September in a fast, moving action packed battle. But this wasn't the same Dykes last night.

Referee Charley Daggert and Judge Lou Tress awarded Turner his 34th win in 36 fights on identical 7-2-1 cards, while Judge Zach Clayton scored it 6-3-1. The Associated Press gave Turner an 8-2 win as the 22-year-old Negro evened the score with the slim built kid. Turner's only other defeat was to Welterweight Champion "Kid" Gavilan in a title bout here last July.

Fleming Knocks Hogan From Lead In Palm Springs Golf

Palm Springs, Calif. (AP)—Golf's famed Ben Hogan stepped out of the lead in the $10,000 Thunderbird Country Club Invitational Tournament late yesterday and a little known professional, Pete Fleming of St. Andrews, Ill., moved into the front, with a 36-hole score of 67-66-133.

Hogan and another veteran, "Dutch" Harrison, took the lead Monday with seven under par 65s. But yesterday Hogan and Harrison shot a par of 69s to go into a tie with three other pros at 134.

Bracketed with Hogan and Harrison were Jim Turnesa, Jimmy Demaret and Lloyd Mangrum. The 65s of the last two tied the course record, hung up yesterday by Ben and the Dutchman.

Prominence
Fleming, 35 years old, formerly from Hot Springs, Ark., gained prominence 10 days ago when he

Carter Decisions Fenty

Newark, N. J. (AP)—Doug Carter, 137, of Newark, won a one-sided decision from Bob Fenty, 133, New York, in the eight-round main event at Laurel Gardens last night.

Spivey Accused Of Taking Bribe Money

New York (AP)—Bill Spivey, former University of Kentucky All-America basketball player, accepted $1,000 for juggling points in a game and thought "he should have got more," a former teammate testified yesterday.

The witness was Walter Hirsch, 23, of Dayton, Ohio.

The seven foot tall Spivey is being tried in general sessions court on a charge of perjury in denying to a grand jury that he ever discussed fixing games or accepting bribes.

Hirsch said Spivey received $1,000 and that he himself received $800 for "working" the score in a Kentucky game with the University of St. Louis at the Sugar Bowl Tournament in New Orleans in 1950.

Description
"Working" was described as keeping the point spread between the two teams at a predetermined margin for the benefit of gamblers.

Hirsch said he, Spivey and James Line, another Kentucky student accused of being a "go-between," agreed to accept $5,000 in bribes from Jack West, since convicted as a fixer in the basketball scandal, to "work" two games in the tournament.

But he said West became disgusted when the Kentucky players, in trying to hold the winning margin within the agreed point spread, unintentionally lost the game, 43-42.

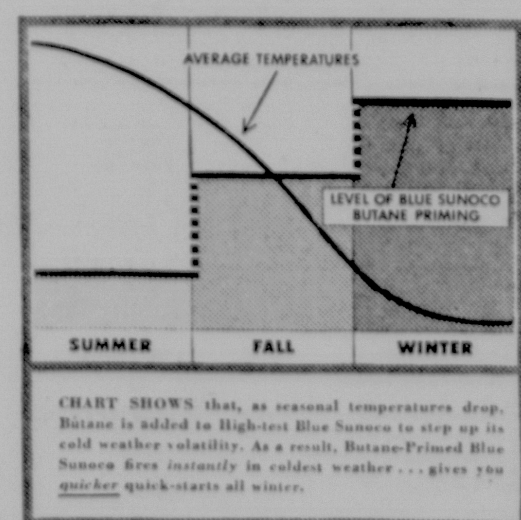

National Open Champion Julius Boros added a 69 to his first round 70 for a 139. Also at 139 was former U. S. Open Champion Lew Worsham with a 71.

Ed Oliver headed a pro-amateur team that included baseball star Ralph Kiner to win the best ball competition. The team had scores of 54-59-113 and Oliver collected $1,000 for his prize.

Brothers Quits As Head Coach After Seven Years At Tulsa

Tulsa, Okla., (AP)—J. O. "Buddy" Brothers, builder of mighty offensive football teams at the University of Tulsa over a seven-year span, quit his head coaching job yesterday.

His letter of resignation to the school's president, Dr. C. I. Pontius, gave no reason for his action, and Brothers would not elaborate to newsmen.

But he did say he hoped either to obtain another coaching position or enter private business.

Meeting

He acknowledged he had talked with a University of North Carolina official concerning the head coach vacancy there. But he would not say if he had been approached by any other schools, such as the Universities of Washington and Wyoming, both now without coaches.

Brothers will leave the school February 1, a month after his 1952 Golden Hurricane, the nation's rushing and total offense champion, lost to Florida in the Gator Bowl at Jacksonville, Fla., 14-13.

It had won eight games, lost one and tied one in the regular season.

Rumors since have had something brewing in the coaching staff, but only last week Brothers termed "highly out of line" a Detroit sportscaster's report he was quitting and would be succeeded by Line Coach Bernie Witucki.

Favorite

Gavilan will be a heavy favorite, of course, for the Cuban Kid is a first class champion. But the fans who flock into Uline Arena for the charity show—and those who watch it on television—should see a good fight. Certainly it should be much better than the fight he had with Aman Peck in Tampa, Fla., last week. There the kid danced and clownish his way to an easy decision.

Cardell has won 63 fights, 16 on knockouts, has lost 10 and had seven draws. He's only been knocked out once, by Ike Williams. Most of Cardell's training has been done at home, but Gavilan has been here having himself a time.

As you possibly have noticed, on your way back to the sports pages there has been a presidential inauguration here. Lots of celebrities around, and Gavilan is happy to find he's one, too.

All this, however, doesn't seem to have affected his timing any. He worked out with Jimmy Cooper, a local featherweight. Cooper was asked if the champ was ready.

"Is he ready?" Cooper repeated. "Boy, he was born ready."

Davis Named Athletic Head

Loretto, Pa. (AP)—St. Francis College named L. V. Davis athletic director yesterday to succeed the Rev. John J. Welsh.

Davis, a graduate of Notre Dame also is football coach at the college. Father Welsh will direct the recruiting of prospective students.

Snider Signs Contract

Brooklyn (AP)—"Duke" Snider became the 17th Brooklyn Dodger to sign his contract yesterday, receiving an increase to a reported $23,000. Club officials, as usual, announced no financial details.

DiMaggio May Enter Hall Of Fame Today

New York (AP)—Baseball's Hall of Fame is expected to open the gates to Joe DiMaggio today when the ballots are counted for the 1953 election by the 10-year members of the Baseball Writers Association.

Eligible

DiMaggio, eligible for the first time after one year's retirement, is expected to receive more than the required 75 per cent of the vote from the veterans members.

Others given a good chance of making the grade, on the basis of their standing in last year's voting, are Bill Terry, "Dizzy" Dean and Al Simmons.

Record Major To Roll

Record Major League keglers are slated to take part in four matches at the Pocono Bowling Center today, at 7 p.m. Schedule follows:

Alleys one and two—Stroudsburg Candyland vs. Globe Furniture.

Alleys three and four—Scheller and Kitchen vs. Shoemaker Signs.

Alleys five and six—Community Bar vs. A. C. Miller.

Alleys seven and eight—Fabels Dairy vs. Line Material.

Tough Fight
However, the Bangor junior varsity contingent came up with a 64-51 victory over the Fountain Hill junior varsity in the preliminary tussle.

Wilson Leads TTHS To Victory Over Chestnuthill High, 56-41

Brookheads—Tobyhanna Township High rolled to its third straight victory in the Monroe County League last night with a 56-41 decision over Chestnuthill, here on the losing aggregation's home hardwood. The win enabled TTHS, a club seeking its fourth straight championship, to protect its undefeated record.

TTHS enjoyed a perfect night by also clipping Chestnuthill in the junior varsity encounter, 13-13. Jim "Cocky" Wilson was the difference between the two clubs in the varsity contest, as the likable forward registered 30 points, on 14 goals from the floor and two from the charity line.

Even Count
Chestnuthill was able to keep abreast of the defending title holder in the first period, as both clubs tallied 10 points during the initial eight minutes of play. However, the visiting team held a 15-11 edge in the second round and went out in front at halftime, 25-21, a position it held the remainder of the game.

However, the TTHS power didn't make its presence felt until the third round, when the pupils of Coach Carl Majer dominated, 14-6. The visiting crew then made certain of victory with a 17-14 advantage in the last round.

TTHS made good on 17 of 25 charity tosses, while Chestnuthill hit on 11 of 22 shots from the same mark.

Posinger was the big gun in a losing cause, accounting for 13 points on five field goals and three foul shots.

Smithen Suffer First Circuit Loss

Canadensis—Barrett High inflicted the first loss of the Monroe County League season on Polk last night, 48-44, and knocked the charges of Coach Art Smith out of a first place tie with Tobyhanna Township. A capacity crowd here at the winning contingent's home court watched the Barrett forces fight off a strong finish by Polk to land its second victory in three circuit outings.

Polk now also supports a record of two victories and one defeat at the present time.

However, the visiting Polk fans found something to cheer about in the fact that the Smithen won the junior varsity contest against Barrett, 36-23.

Barrett played a portion of the last quarter without three regulars, namely Roger Roan, Stan Cheslock and Don Kropp, who departed from the game via the five-foul rule during the last eight minutes of play.

Damage
The home team did most of its damage in the first half, holding a 9-4 edge at the end of the initial quarter and a 25-11 lead at halftime. The halftime advantage held water, despite the fact that Polk had the better of the scoring in the second half, 33-23.

Barrett made 14 of 33 foul shots, while Polk rang the bell on 22 of 40 charity tosses.

Crowe's Keglers Hold Down Number Two Spot

Crowe's Insurance, East Stroudsburg's entry in the Delaware Valley Bowling League, is very much in the battle for first place in the circuit, currently trailing Dainty Potato Chips by a very narrow margin. The East Stroudsburg contingent at this mark in the season has won 41 points and dropped 23, which is three losses and one loss than the mark of 44 and 24 being carried by the Potato Chip keggers at the present time.

Third Place
Phillipsburg's Elks are currently resting comfortably in third place, while the Fleas Club rounds out the first division as the number four organization.

The second division features Capuro's Service, Riegel Ridge, Dugan and Marcon and Henderson Packard in that order.

Crowe's Insurance returns to action on Saturday, when the East Stroudsburg contingent plays host to Henderson Packard at Harmon's Recreation, at 8 p. m.

Coolbaugh Rallies In Second Half To Trip Pocono, 43-34

Tobyhanna—Coolbaugh used a big third quarter to spring to its first favorable decision of the season in the Monroe County League last night, as the charges of Coach Don Wismer defeated Pocono, 43-34, here on the winning quintet's home boards. Coolbaugh has also lost two games thus far this season. Pocono is also now sporting a mark of one win and two setbacks.

Pocono gained a measure of revenge by clipping Coolbaugh in the junior varsity contest, 24-20.

However, Coolbaugh came back from a two-point deficit at halftime in the main event to march off with the victory, with most of the damage being done in the third round.

Close Battle
The home club jumped off to a 10-7 lead at the end of the first quarter, but Pocono fought back to hold an 18-16 edge at the halfway mark, after holding the upper hand in an 11-6 second period.

Coolbaugh pulled itself together to dominate the third round, 16-7, and then made certain of victory with an 11-9 edge in the last period scoring.

Coolbaugh made only seven of 20 foul shots, while Pocono could hit the mark on only four of 15 charity tosses.

Jim Kinsley led the Coolbaugh attack with 12 markers, while Bob Hallet came up with a similar total in a losing cause.

38 Awarded Degrees At State Teachers College

Before an audience of 38 graduating East Stroudsburg State Teachers College students and their parents—privileged by a lifelong existence under a democratic way of life—today described the thorny problems of a nation learning to govern itself.

Begum Shasta Ikramullah—an elected member of the Pakistan Constituent Assembly and wife of that nation's ambassador to Canada—discussed the effects of liberation on tiny Pakistan and neighboring India.

The two nations were created when the British Empire released its hold on "British India" in 1947. Pakistan and India were created from the territory as two sovereign states on Aug. 14, 1947.

Shortly after Pakistan became a government on its own, Begum Ikramullah said, "a terrific upheaval began all over—in both India and Pakistan".

This "upheaval", she pointed out, involved the movement of nearly 35 million persons across the borders set up between the two states.

Pakistan and India, she continued, had been divided basically along religious lines—Hindu India and Moslem Pakistan. Many persons passed across the borders to find relocation in the home of their choice.

Between the years 1919 and 1946, the stateswoman said, both elements had been united in opposition to the British Empire. When freedom came, therefore, few people realized the two sharply opposed elements actually existed.

Basic differences in religious philosophy, she said, were primarily responsible for the creation of the two separate states.

Due to friction between the Hindu and Moslem factions, however, both countries were thrown into a period of insecurity "barely 24 hours" after their creation. Each was then forced to find a solution to refugee rehabilitation problems which other nations face only after periods of warfare.

Speaking in a low, slightly-accented voice, Begum Ikramullah declared talks between her country and the new India had failed during the past few years. "A little more generosity on the part of the Hindus; a little less distrust on the part of the Moslems," she said, might have resulted in a solution to problems between the two countries.

She cited the Kashmir question (on which both countries maintain a right to govern) as the principal "bone of contention between my country and India."

Pakistan has kept the Kashmir issue alive in the United Nations during the past four years. The UN has now agreed that a plebiscite should be held among the people of Kashmir to determine which way the province wishes to go.

Both India and Pakistan have approved the plebiscite proposal. India, however, makes the stipulation that her troops must be allowed to remain in the province while the polling is in process.

On the international scene, the Begum said, modern inventions have destroyed the old nationalistic frontiers—"Now, if we do not come nearer to each other mentally and spiritually, the physical nearness can be a danger," she added.

"However remote a country may be or however small it may be," she declared, "we are all neighbors in this world today."

Begum Ikramullah was educated at the University of Calcutta in India, Kings College in London and at London University. The latter university conferred the degree of Doctor of Philosophy on her. She is a former delegate to the United Nations.
